OUR SAN FRANCISCO CORRESPONDENCE.

Hospitalities Tendered Queen Emma The Harbor Fortifications of San Francisco, &c. San Francisco, Oct. 10, 1866.

On Saturday last her Majesty Queen Emma, at the invitation of Brigadier General French, Colonel of the Second Artillery, visited the Presidio to view the parade and drill of light batteries A and M of that regiment, The hour appointed was half-past cleven A. M., but it was half-past twelve P. M. before the royal party arrived on the ground, her Majesty having been taking a French breakfast, which meal is generally long and rather heavy. Her delay was wondered at, for heretofore she has been very punctual in all her appointments.

has been very punctual in all her appointments.

As the royal carriages entered the enclosure the flag As the royal carriages entered the enclosure the hag was run up and a sainte of twenty-one guns was fired by battery A, the Second Artillery band at the same time performed a national air. General French and staff rode forward to meet the Queen and accompanied her carriage to the position assigned for it, where the exercise could be seen to the greatest advantage.

Speech by Governor Swann at Baltimore—He Compatulates the Citizens of Baltimore on the Result of the Election in that City, Claiming it as a Justification and Endorse-ment of His Course. Baltimora, Nov. 7, 1998.

Internal Revenue Department, and the crowd which soon filled up the space between the Exchange and the Post men, I will say to you that the city of Baltimore and the conservatives, who constitute three-fourths of the population, have covered themselves with glory—(Loud cheers)—because they have planted themselves on the constitution and laws of their Blate, and have gone through this exciting election witnout bloodshed and riot. Too much praise cannot be given them. (Loud cheers and calls for cheers for Toon awann for United States 'enator, which were given.) I am proud to recognize that fact, and to give the citizens of Baltimore credit for it. I am proud to receive this ovation at the hands of men who have stood by the constitution. (Loud cheers.) This contest is wis. We have achieved a glorious victory, the news of which is going to the North, to the South, to the East and to the West—a victory that will prove to the whole country that we have been opposed to the invasion of our State by extremists and revolutionists. (Loud applause.) We have extracted from the radicals themselves the admission that the Governor of the State has stood by the law. Now, gentlemen, you have dens your duty and are now in the ascendancy. (Cheers.) The governmental control is in your lands, and I am sure you will not abuse the power intrusted to you by the people. The State will sustain you. The North, Youth, East and West will appland you, and you will cover yourselves with laurels that can nover fade. You have not only been supported by those who once accused you of transping on the laws of the State, but you have been pronounced lays by the flat that bas gone forth from their own office, (Fremendous cheers. lowing:—

Had the victorious party come with fierce exactions, would not the South laive compiled? How much rather, therefore, compily with this spendament, in which there is no bankshment, no confuscation, no punchament—no "indemnity for the past," only "security for the future." The wisest statesmen of the South recoming these facts, and are soming to the conclusion to do the best they can, and not give the Stevens-Summer faction opportunity to exact still heavier penalties. After the adeption of this amendment, there is only one more requisite to representation. The election of men who were loyal all through the war. This must be done as it was in Tunnesses.
